

The annual Atlas Van Lines Migration Patterns study provides a snapshot of relocation patterns. The 2013 data shows that several northern states in the West and Midwest regions were popular destinations this year. Many of the other states were balanced, while much of Canada remained outbound with the exceptions of Newfoundland and New Brunswick.

Shipments noted for Canada are cross-border to the United States or from the United States (not interprovincial).

More information at: atlasvanlines.com/migration-patterns

Highest % INBOUND

% of total interstate/interprovince moves that were inbound

In 2013

U.S.	Canada
67% North Dakota	75% Newfoundland
60% North Carolina	50% New Brunswick
58% Texas	45% Alberta

Past 10 Years

U.S.	Canada
67% Washington, D.C.	63% Newfoundland
59% Alaska	51% New Brunswick
58% North Carolina	43% Quebec

Highest % OUTBOUND

% of total interstate/interprovince moves that were outbound

In 2013

U.S.	Canada
60% Connecticut	67% Saskatchewan
59% New York	62% Ontario
59% Indiana	61% Quebec

Past 10 Years

U.S.	Canada
59% New York	65% Manitoba
59% New Jersey	62% Saskatchewan
58% Ohio	61% Ontario

Top 10 - Total Number of Moves

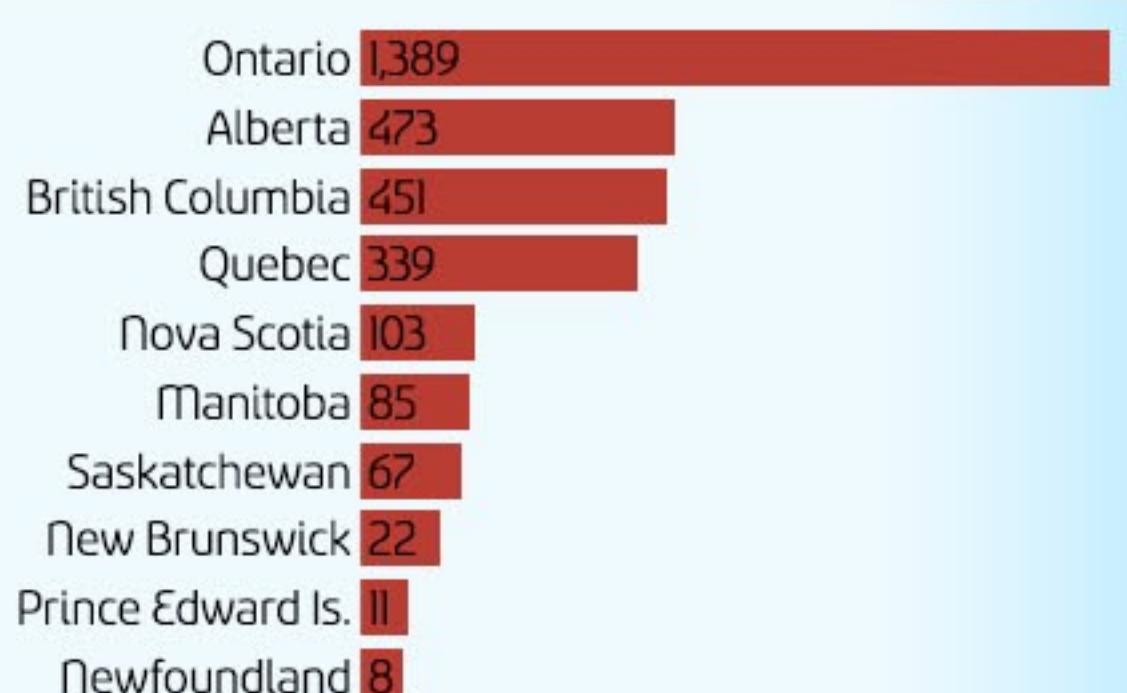

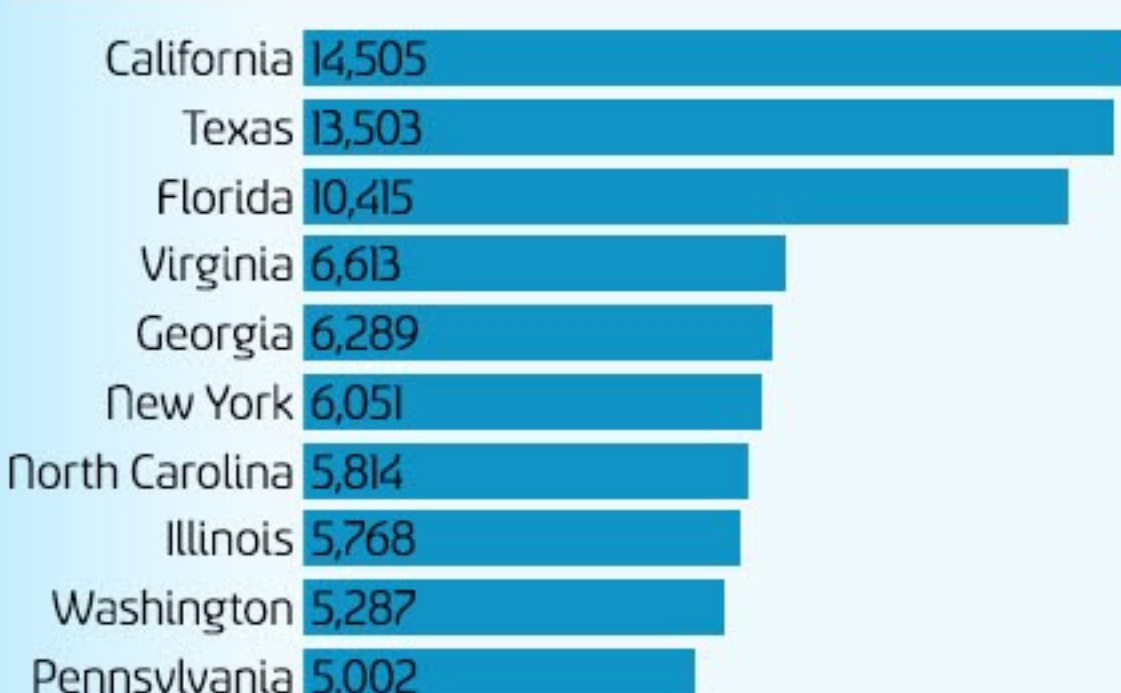

States/Provinces with the highest # of total moves (inbound and outbound)

U.S.

Canada

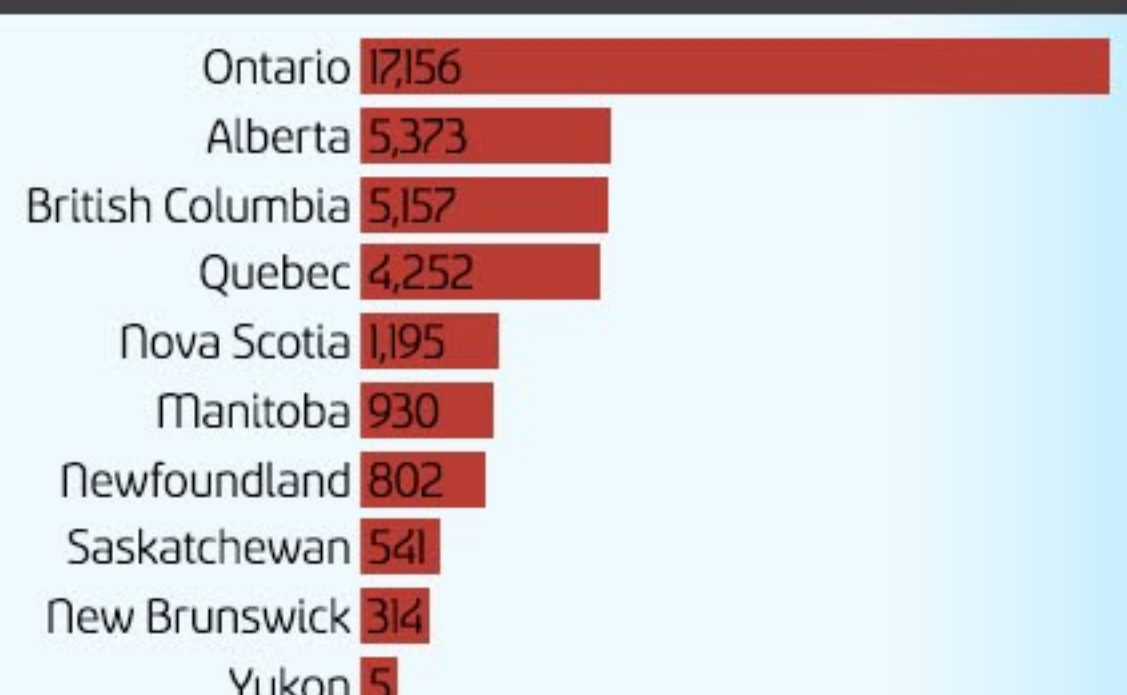

2013

2013

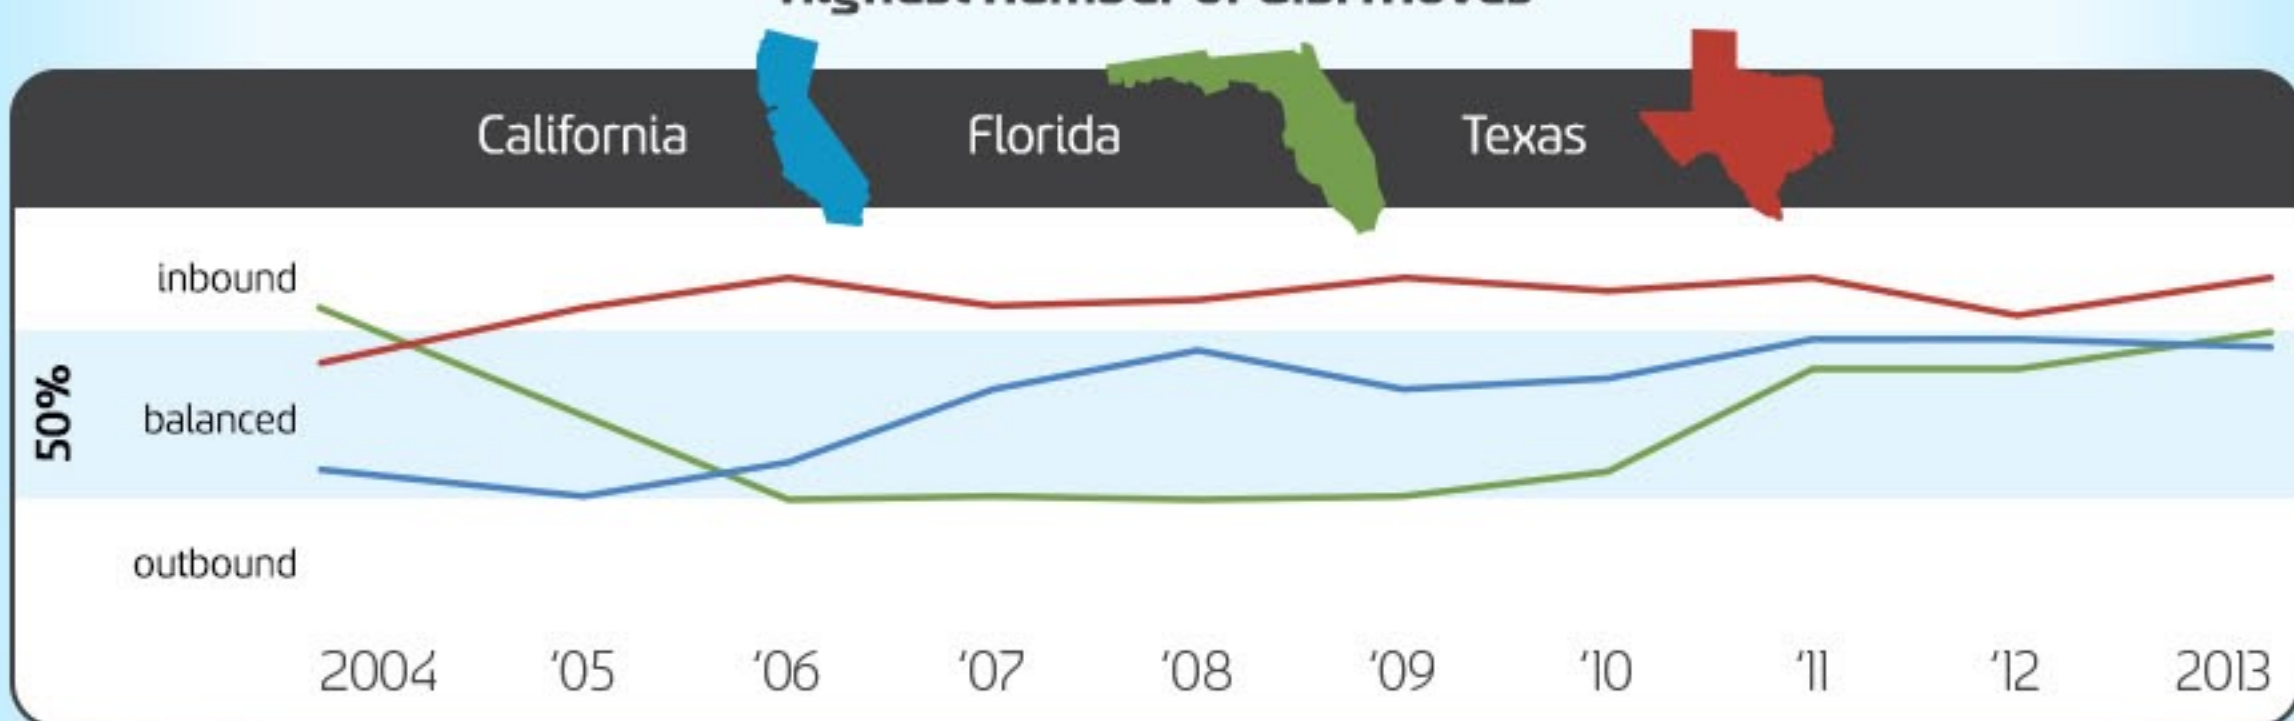

Past 10 Years

Past 10 Years

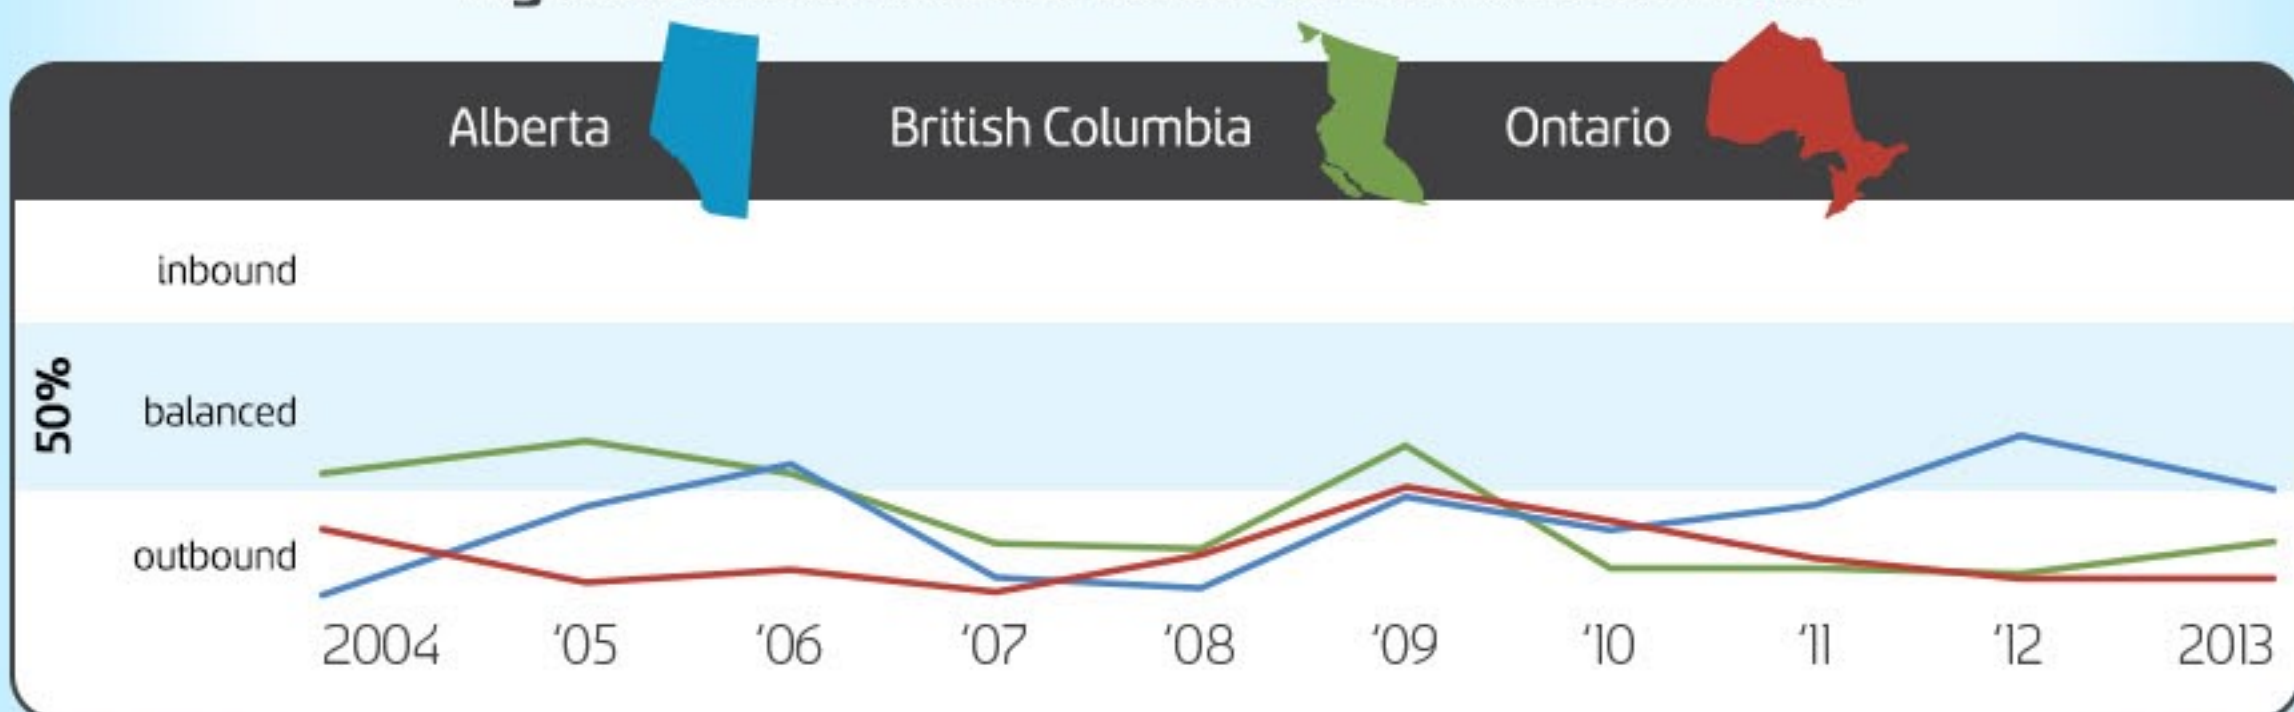

10-Year Trends

Highest Number of U.S. Moves

Highest Number of Cross-Border to/from Canada Moves

Most Consistent U.S. States/Canadian Provinces

